Scope and Content

This collection contains the research of Clyde Clinton Hawthorne on the Hawthorne and related families. When the collection was donated, most of the items were covered in dust and dirt. Due to the poor condition, some items were not kept. Most of the items were in binders. Some binders were labeled with family names, but multiple binders were labeled with the Hawthorne name. Binders had divider tabs indicating a generation number. It is not clear from the material if all started from the same common point or from various individuals. The items were removed from the binders and put into acid free folders. When possible, the generation number is indicated. The collection consists of genealogical information includes charts and forms, photographs, vital records, and other supporting documentation.
