

October, Monday 31

Cool after the rain went to sorting over apples to put into the ground to keep for winter I buried twenty five bushels to day [sic] we have been brought to the close of another month the year is fast drawing to a close and soon will be gone never more to [written sideways in margin]: return