The Rev Worth Caughron officiated at the funeral services. Burial was in the Selmore Cemetery under direction of the Chaffin Funeral Home. An obituary, submitted by the survivors, follows: Obituary The gates of Heaven have swung ajar and another soul has entered into that mysterious realm that lies yet further onward that all men seek and hope to attain; that place that is the final resting place of the soul of mortal man. This time the gates of Heaven. have encircled and closed upon the soul of Martha Jane Adams, who came into this world on the 14th day of October 1884, and whom the Lord saw proper to take our from our midst on the 3rd day of January, 1950, at the age of 65 years, 2 months and 20 days. She was joined in holy wedlock and united in the bonds of matrimony with William

Franklin Landers the 12th day of August, 1908, which union was blessed with God's greatest gift of four children, all of whom are living and who are unable to comprehend the magnitude of their loss nor to obtain solace for their aching hearts and agonizing souls. They are Mrs. Alta White of Highlandville, Mrs. Geraldine Patterson of Galena, Mrs. Verenece White of Ozark, and Mrs. Opal McLean of Nixa; seven grandchildren, one great-grandson, and one brother, J.H. Adams of Ozark. At the age of 14 years she became a staunch believer in the teachings of the Lord and Master, and, in obedience with His commands, united with the Prospect Baptist Church. In later years her membership was moved to the Highlandville Baptist church of which she was a true and loyal member even until her death. She lived so that when her summons came to join the innumerable throng that moves to that mysterious realm, she was ready and passed from the repose of life into that of death and thence through the Gates of the Kingdom of Heaven into the Reward of eternal glorious, everlasting life that is the reward and the inherent right of all of God's children. Her husband passed away 17 years ago, September 8, 1932. A vast throng of friends survive her. Besides her daughters; she is sadly missed by a number of other relatives all of whom will ever miss her cheery smile and lovable heart. Perhaps the sentiments of the our survivors may, better be expressed by the following: Dearest Mother, thou has left us, Oh 'Tis sad to say farewell: But 'tis God, who has bereft us, He doeth all things well, Tho we never-more shall greet thee Neath' the circle of the sun, But in Heaven we hope to meet thee When our work on Earth is done.

In Memory of John Landes, Killed December 14

Here in my curving hands I cup This quiet dust; I life it up
Here is the mother of all thought; Of this the shining heavens are wrought.
The laughing lips, the feet that rove, The face, the body, that you love.
Mere dust, no more, yet nothing less. And this has suffered consciousness.
Passion and terror, this again Shall suffer passion, death and pain.
As all flesh must die, so all Now dust, shall live; Tis natural
Yet hardly do I understand - Here in the hollow of my hand.
A bit of God Himself I keep, Between two vigils fallen asleep.

Lane, Byron Ellsworth 18 Nov 1922 - 22 Aug 1949 CCR 25 Aug 1949

The eighth annual three-day float party of four brothers ended in tragedy late Monday afternoon when the youngest of the four was drowned and another barely escaped drowning in waist deep water on the White River near Shell Knob bridge in Barry county. Dead is Byron Ellsworth Lane, 26-year-old farmer who lived about 15 miles south of Springfield near Ozark. And in "satisfactory" condition is Caswell Lane, 30-year-old Frisco brakeman of 1758 North Delaware, who reportedly is suffering from shock and "lots of bruises." Both men had left Springfield Monday morning on an annual fishing trip with two older brothers, Carl S. Lane, 43, of 1512 St. Louis, a shop superintendent at Producer's Produce company and Haden Lane, 44, who is on vacation from his home in Los Angeles. According to Mrs. Carl S. Lane, the tragedy occurred this way: Carl and Haden, in one boat, had floated down the river a mile to make camp and cook supper for the other two, who had remained in their boat near Shell Knob. About 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, when the two younger Lanes "didn't show up," Carl and Haden went back up the river to find both of them in the water. Carl pulled both brothers out and gave artificial respiration to young Byron for "a long time," Mrs. Lane said, but it had no effect. Mrs. Lane said Byron and Caswell apparently had stopped at a sandbar, vacated their boat, and started for a swim. She believed Byron had suffered "the cramps" and drowned, while Caswell nearly met death in trying to save his brother. Barry county Coroner Paul Henbest believed the tragedy possibly occurred after the younger Lanes' boat became stuck on the sandbar, and Byron Lane "went under" when he stepped from the boat to push it off. There will be no inquest. Besides the three brothers who were on the fishing trip, Byron Lane is survived by his wife, Mackey; one son, Tommie; his mother, Mrs. Nannie Lane, of the home, and another brother, Homer, of Little Rock, Ark. The funeral, under direction of Alma Lohmeyer-Jewell E. Windle, was held Thursday afternoon at the Hopedale church north of Ozark with Rev. Gerald Locke officiating. Pallbearers were Neal Payne, Stanton Patterson, Jimmy Todhunter, Larry Gresham, V.V. Chapman and Huber Chapman.

Prosecutor: Fatal shooting by deputies was justified
Ryan Slight News-Leader 26 Jan 2007

Christian County deputies were justified in fatally shooting an Ozark man on Jan. 12, Prosecuting Attorney Ron Cleek said Thursday. Paul E. Lewis, 46, was pronounced dead outside a residence at 157 Ruth St. He had reportedly raised a handgun in a threatening manner at officers. After reviewing information gathered by the Missouri Highway Patrol, Cleek will not file charges against three deputies who fired a total of nine shots. Capt. Jeremy Whitehill of the Christian County Sheriff's Department said the agency was pleased with Cleek's decision. Two of the deputies have returned to work. The department Thursday was waiting for a medical evaluation to be completed for the third, which Whitehill said is standard procedure. "We had no doubt that was what the outcome would be. Our officers are trained to do what needs to be done in an unfortunate situation," Whitehill said. The patrol interviewed officers who were at the shooting, collected physical evidence and spoke with neighbors. Deputies responded to a residence southwest of Ozark around 5 p.m. Jan. 12. A woman reportedly told authorities that Lewis appeared to be intoxicated, had a gun and was threatening to kill someone. According to a report by Cleek, six deputies arrived. A deputy knocked on the door and announced the sheriff's department was there. He retreated behind a vehicle after hearing two gunshots inside the house. Lewis then walked out with a handgun in his left hand. A witness interviewed by the patrol recalled hearing an officer telling Lewis to put the gun down. He allegedly responded, "No, just shoot me." The witness reported hearing other officers tell Lewis to drop the weapon, but he did not comply. The witness recalled seeing Lewis raise the handgun, and then some officers fired. "Bottom line, the officers gave every opportunity for the deceased to put down his weapon and avoid this tragedy. It is my opinion that the officers had no other choice than to fire their weapons," Cleek wrote in his report. "Either the officers or neighbors of the deceased could have been injured or killed had the officers not taken the actions that they did," the report said. In an unrelated incident, Christian County deputies shot and killed Mike Digiuseppe, 53, of Springfield after he reportedly refused to drop a gun he held. Cleek decided Jan. 2 that the shooting was justified.

CCH-N 31 Jan 2007

Christian County Prosecutor Ron Cleek, Jan. 25, deemed the Jan. 12 fatal shooting of Paul E. Lewis on Ruth Street in Ozark by county deputies justified. Cleek said in a news release that no charges will be brought against any of the deputies that were at the location at the time of the shooting. He said the investigation was ongoing and won't be finalized until all forensic tests and autopsy reports are finalized, but the deputies involved should be allowed to return to active duty. According to information from Cleek's office, officers responded to a 911 call at about 5 p.m. Jan. 12 from Lewis' sister. She said that her brother was threatening suicide and harm to other family members. When officers arrived at the scene one went to the front door, knocked and then heard two shots fired from inside the home. The officer took cover when Lewis walked out the front door in view of all of the six officers responding. The officers commanded Lewis to drop the weapon he displayed. An "independent" witness to the shooting recounted that Lewis refused to obey the officers' orders and said, "No just shoot me." When Lewis raised the weapon, three officers fired nine shots with three shots hitting Lewis in the chest and one in his arm.

Paul E. Lewis, 46, Ozark, was born May 23, 1960, and met his Lord and Savior on January 12, 2007. Although Paul's life on earth was short, he touched many lives. Looney, Leah Kathy (Daniels) Cameron 1944 - 16 Feb 1990 OH 26 Apr 1990 & OH 3 May 1990

A "badly" decomposed body was found in a pile of flood debris along the banks of the James River Tuesday afternoon. Police said it was too early to tell whose body it was, though it may be the body of a Hollister woman reported missing since Feb. 16. "At this point, it's really, really hard to say" who it is, said Christian County Sheriff's Department Investigator Roger Huffman. "As of now, we are going to have to wait for the autopsy and make the identification by some other form of records." Huffman said at the scene the gender of the body was not known. The body was discovered around 1:30 p.m. by three elderly men scavenging the banks of the river along a dirt road south of Highway FF1 and FF4 in northern Christian County. They were looking for old cans and bottles, Huffman said. One of the men smelled something bad and went for a closer look. It was then that he found a skull, Huffman said. He then called the sheriff's department and an officer was sent to the scene. The officer called back, verifying the claim, and Huffman, Investigator Bill Miller, Sheriff Steve Whitney and the State Highway Patrol were sent to the scene. Police used a backhoe to pull the body from the debris. It was around 6:30 p.m. that the body was finally pulled from the debris. "It's in a pretty bad state," Huffman said of the body. He said it appeared animals had been picking at the body. "It looks like that may have been going on," Huffman said. "It doesn't take long for (animals) to get at it." On Feb. 16, Leah Looney was reported missing when her ex-husband, Stan Looney, told Greene County Sheriff's Deputies his truck was swept into the James River when his wife drove across a swollen low-water bridge. He told police he was able to escape but his wife was not. Earlier rescue efforts included searches by divers as well as an early-April search through piles of wood and brush debris created by high river levels in Greene County.

AND

A coroner's inquest has been set to look into the death of a 44-year-old Hollister woman found along the banks of the James River in northern Christian County. Authorities are looking for clues in the cause of death of Leah Looney, who was identified by family members who said a necklace, blue jeans, socks and a black shoe matched those of Looney. Christian County Sheriff Steve Whitney was to meet with Greene County Sheriff John Pierponte and a task force that has looked into the case involving Looney; who was reported missing Feb. 15 by her ex-husband. An inquest by Christian County Coroner Arthur Adams was planned for Wednesday night to look for clues to determine if Looney died "as the result of accident, homicide or suicide." An autopsy performed last week in St. Louis failed to identify Looney, whose body was so badly decomposed that it was impossible to use fingerprints for identification. Dental records were also of no use since her dentures were missing. Family members finally identified Looney Friday at the Greene County Sheriff's Department. Her body was discovered last Tuesday by three elderly men who were scavenging the banks of the James River, looking for old cans and bottles. Looney was reported missing in mid-February after her ex-husband, Stanford Claude Looney; 49, told authorities the two were in a pickup that was swept off a low-water bridge on the James River near Springfield. The body was found about four miles downstream from where Stan Looney said the body had been swept into the river.

Gun Accident Brings Death to Sparta Lad

Twelve-year old Terry Luttrull was the victim of a gun accident at his home east of Sparta on Hwy 14 Tuesday afternoon. Holding the heavy calibre gun which accidentally discharged was Terry's twin brothers, Gary. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Don Luttrull. Christian County Coroner described the accident by saying the twins' older brothers, Keith, 17, a senior at Sparta High School, had been shooting a .22 calibre rifle "out behind the house" and that he gave the gun to Gary to return to the gun rack about 3:45 p.m. Keith left to go to town, and Gary put the gun away but took a .30 calibre lever action rifle from the rack. Coroner Harris said the boy told him the chamber was empty, but he levered a shell from the magazine into the barrel. This cocked the hammer, and as Gary was holding the gun at his side, the hammer fell and the gun fired. The shot passed through an open door and struck Terry, standing in another room, in the lower part of his chest, killing him instantly. Harris said no inquest is planned. Besides his parents and brothers, Terry is survived by another brother, Denny, of Corning, Calif.; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Luttrull, of Elkhead and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Coffey of Sparta. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Harris Funeral Home Chapel at Ozark, with Rev. James Applegate, assisted by Rev. Clifford Day, officiating. Burial will be in Sparta Cemetery.

His death occurred about 6:15 that evening in the waters of Bull Shoals Lake, southeast of Forsyth, where he and John Pile, editor of this newspaper, had spent the afternoon fishing. Location of the tragedy was what is known as the Hayworth Hole, about two miles up the lake from the Beaver Creek Boat Dock at the mouth of Beaver where the trip originated. About 6:15 p.m. after a successful afternoon trolling, the two men decided to try casting.. Pile had been running the outboard motor and it was decided he should cast from the front of the boat while Major ran the motor. The two men met at the center of the boat and passed each other face to face. Pile preceded to the front of the boat and Major to the rear. While their backs were to each other, Major fell from the boat. Pile was immediately aware that Major had fallen into the water, and he hurried to the motor and spun the boat back to where Major had fallen as indicated by his cap floating on the water. When Major failed to surface after a few seconds, Pile dived in to the lake after him, but his efforts to locate him were futile. Pile swam to the boat which had drifted several feet away in the light breeze that was blowing and returned to the boat dock. A trip to Forsyth was made immediately by Paul Fredericks, Springfield contractor, who notified Taney County authorities and called Ozark to give word of the tragedy. Rube Meadows, veteran Branson riverman, who is famous for his work recovering bodies from the water and his son, Chris Meadows, also of Branson, were summoned and they arrived at the boat dock with their equipment about eight o'clock. Assisting in the search were Mr. and Mrs. John Slack of Springfield and Pile. At 2:30 Saturday morning, a thick blanket of fog covered the lake, making it impossible to continue the search. Work was to begin at daylight the next morning, but fog continued to delay operations until seven o'clock. The searching party was augmented by Sheriff Theron Gideon of Taney County, Scotty Atkins of the State Conservation Department, Bill Bilyeu, Ross Vaughan, Gene Sellars, and Russell Grubaugh, all of Ozark. A fishing plug attached to Major's line at the time he fell from the boat was brought to the surface by the boat occupied by Sheriff Gideon, Atkins and Vaughan. A short time later, Vaughan contacted the body with a grappling hook and it was raised to the surface at 9:07 a.m., almost exactly 15 hours after the mishap. Water at the point of recovery was approximately seven to eight feet deep. Major was still tightly clutching his rod and reel. This fact, the position of his body and the fact that he was a capable swimmer leads to the belief that he suffered a heart attack just as he reached the rear of the boat.

The career of Joe Major will always remain a bright and shining light in the history of Ozark and surrounding community. We watched Joe during the early struggle for security when he dumped all the milk and weighed and tested, made the cheese, then finished the day with hours of laborious work over his books. His progress was steady and inevitable. His opinion was candidly given but never inflicted. Joe Major found time to play a vital role in the civic functions of the community,. He was the first president of the Ozark Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Ozark Board of Education and immediate past president and long-time member of the Ozark Lions Club. We derive great satisfaction in being allowed to report that the Major Cheese Company will be an integral part of the Ozark community for long years to come. As Joe had planned and dreamed, his son, cast in the same mold as the father, has assumed active management of the operation. He, along with a fine group of loyal and capable employees with whom Joe had surrounded himself, will continue to operate the Business as usual. We think we speak for the entire community when we pledge to Joe L. Majors and Mrs. Joe R. Major his mother, the same respect and patronage the business enjoyed under the direction of Joe R. Major, their father and husband.

Mallonee, Enoch Andrews 1871 - 28 Jun 1935

[Note: Son of Thomas W. & Nancy E. (?) Mallonee]

Funeral services for Enoch Andrews Mallonee, 63-year-old boilermaker whose body was found east of the city yesterday after he had apparently committed suicide, will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Herman H. Lohmeyer Chapel. The Reverend Robert Baker will officiate. The body was lying face downward in a small stream, three bullet holes in the chest apparently self-inflicted. The body was lashed to a wire fence in an evident attempt to make sure it would soon be found. Tuesday was the second anniversary of Mallonee's daughter's death. Grief was blamed for his act. He had been deeply affected by the death, and had often visited the grave of the daughter, Mrs. Jewell Hooper, who for years was a clerk at the Union National Bank. The Frisco workman left his home at 1024 East Division Street to go to work at the north shops Thursday. That was the last time Mrs. Mallonee saw him. His body was found by three boys who walked northward on the rocky lane off East Mill Street road about a half-mile east of the city to pick blackberries. Mrs. Mallonee reported the disappearance of her husband to police yesterday morning and said she fear, "the worst had come," but the news of the suicide seemed a terrible shock to her. She declared she had become alarmed at her husband's despondency about a week ago. Sunday, at the home of his son, Roy Mallonee, of near Sparta, he had talked of "life after death." Survivors besides his wife and son are five brothers, John, Sebetha, Kan., Charles, Highlandville, Joe, Springfield, Ed, of California, and Conrad of Crane; three sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Burman, Springfield, Mrs. Emma Little, Springfield and Mrs. Clemma Frazier, Clever; and two grandchildren. Mr. Mallonee was a member of the Modern Woodmen, the Knights of Pythias and the Methodist Church. Mr. Mallonee tried to borrow a pistol from Detective Riley Bolerjack about a week ago, the detective disclosed last night. He said he wanted it to take with him on a fishing trip in the Gasconade country. "I saw that he was worried about something," Bolerjack said, "and I told him I didn't have a gun I could loan him. He then wanted me to help him find one but I told him I didn't know who to ask. I talked to him a long time and tried to find out what was in his mind. I told him I thought he was up to something desperate but he denied it. I insisted on his telling me who he had trouble with, but he repeated that he wanted the gun to take with him on a trip." He promised the detective he would come back and talk with him the following day, but he never came. And Bolerjack forgot the incident until he learned of the suicide. Mrs. Mallonee said yesterday she didn't know where he got the gun with which he killed himself. Note: This clipping from the collection of Lula (Rogers) Gardner is not dated.

An entanglement with a fence while hunting near his home south of Sparta proved fatal Tuesday for Walter C. Martin, 64, a writer and resident of the Sparta community for the past ten years. A hawk had been bothering Martin's chickens and about noon Tuesday, he took a 12 gauge double-barrel shotgun in pursuit of the predator. When he failed to return for lunch, his wife, Mrs. Ruth Martin started searching for him and found his body near their home, his feet still entangled in the strands of a fence. Death came from a wound in the neck and it was obvious that he had fallen and the gun discharged while trying to cross the fence. County officials were called to the scene and their decision was that no inquest was necessary. Martin had worked for newspapers and advertising agencies in earlier years, and of late had been engaged in writing magazine articles. Gordon J. Massey, 58, well known Ozark attorney and former member of the Missouri State Legislature died about 4:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at his home following an illness of several years. -----

Gordon Massey was a man as big in soul and spirit in stature. Through his aggressive interest in the principles in which he believed, he played a significant role in Ozark and Christian County community for many years. In retrospect, it seems that the writer and Gordon were invariably on opposite sides in the community's little controversial issues. After they were decided, one way or the other, we always set down together and talked it over without even a shade of bitterness or invective. In fact, many of these discussions were enjoyed while fishing together on one of the Ozarks streams Gordon loved so well. This writer said on numerous occasions during Gordon's lifetime - and we sadly repeat it here "He's the most honest man I've ever known." A memorial fund has been established and will be used for medical research. This is more than fitting in view of Gordon's baffling and untimely ailment. The family requests that no flowers be sent, but that contributions to this fund be made to Miss Ethel Wilson at the courthouse.

He was born September 20, 1895, and was the son of James Russell and Edna Nancy (Miles) McCauley. On February 25, 1920, he married Aggie Gilbert. They were married seventy-five years before her death in 1995. Mr. McCauley lived throughout his life in Nixa. He and Aggie lived in the same house for more than seventy-four years. He was a member of Cassidy Methodist Church. Farming was a livelihood, career and a passion for Orville McCauley. In 1925 he started a custom thrashing operation and ran a thrashing machine rig for 30 years, thrashing grain in Christian County and southern Greene County. He thrashed grain from land known today as Battlefield Mall, the Medical Mile, Chesterfield Village, and Parkcrest Shopping Center. He was a very progressive and innovative farmer. He was one of the first farmers to use and promote the use of commercial fertilizer. The first test of Boron, a widely-used ingredient in alfalfa fertilizer today, was conducted on his farm in 1948. He was the first farmer in Christian County to raise a measured and documented hundred bushels of corn to the acre. He was the first farmer in the state of Missouri to raise certified orchard grass seed and delivered the first load of fescue seed ever processed by the Nixa Hardware and Seed Company. He received many local, county, and state awards for diversified farming, soil conservation, balanced farming, and leadership in the agriculture extension programs. In 1960 he discovered a second passion in life when he purchased a Jumbo steam traction engine, just like the one he ran for his father when he was 13 years old. From that beginning grew a collection of immaculately-restored steam traction engines. He was a member of Ozarks Steam Engine Association. In 1965, at the age of seventy, he was invited to demonstrate one of his steam engines at Silver Dollar City's National Festival of Craftsman. For the next twenty-five years he demonstrated at Silver Dollar City with as many as three engines. He spent many hours visiting with steam enthusiasts from all over the nation. At ninety-four, he reluctantly retired due to health. Preceding him in death were: his wife, Aggie; a daughter, Alys Evelyn Scholten; and two sisters, Eula Hulse Claussen and Lennie Powell. The following is the eulogy of Dr. Vincent P. McCormick who died week after a long illness; It is an honor to be asked to give my thoughts about my friend and doctor. No way can I be adequate - there is not enough time, nor enough words, nor am I capable of doing so, but I'll try. The world in the past few days lost from its living Sammy Davis Jr., Jim Hensen much of what they did is recorded so that it can be viewed from the TV screen or listened to on the radio, but we have had depart from us one who was more important to us, one who would open his door to any of us who was ill, who needed to talk to someone, not only would he open his door to us. but he would come to your door if he was asked to, His performance is not recorded for viewing from the TV screen, nor will it be listened to on the radio but it is recorded and viewed from a more important place. it is your and my heart and memories. The life of Dr. McCormick lived. He has given to us . Each of you have memories, each of you will cherish them. God gives us a memory to recall the best of those things we have known. And my memory of Dr, McCormick is full to overflowing of good and wonderful things. We were fortunate to have Dr. McCormick choose Ozark as a place to live, to serve God, practice his chosen profession, near his family and serve people. He and Jane and their family came to Ozark about the time I brought my new bride to Ozark. When we topped the hill just north of Ozark and looked down into the dark valley, there were just a few lights scattered around. I was asked just "where in the world are we". A short time later ,Betty met Dr. and Mrs. McCormick and they had shared the same feeling as they topped the hill and looked down. But as it had for so many before, it did again - the look from the hill captured the love of its newcomers and they stayed to contribute to its future, its growth and well being. And contribute Dr. McCormick did in so many ways, but primarily through the well being of people. He gave his life to the community. He loved Ozark, its people, its purpose, he would come to you in the rain, sleet, snow, dark of night anytime he was needed. He had a wonderful gentle genuine bedside manner if he couldn't solve your problem, he would tell you he had done all he could he do but he didn't stop there. He would get someone else that he felt could help you.. He told me I know what I can do, and I won't try to do more than I can if there is someone else that can do better. This is the mark of a great person that can do all he can then recognize that God did not give any one of us everything and help find that one that has knowledge and expertise that we do not have. Dr. McCormick gave no telling how many physicals to young people who were embarking on their life in sports or whatever career gave medical attention to who knows how many people who were on the downhill side of life and needed not only medical attention but a kind and encouraging word and in the days past when he brought new life into the world and cared for those who were embarking on their life gave encouragement to the concerned young parents giving a bit of sound advice here and there to do what an impact he has had on our community and the people in it always unassuming - going about his business - remaining in the background. I don't like to go to a Dr.'s office because that generally indicates there is something wrong, and for that reason I didn't particularly like to visit his office, but that was the only reason because after he had determined what he could do for me physically, we always had a talk he would want to know where I had been on one of my weekend flights - or if I had been gone for a few days, how the world was where I had been - about education, about people. He wanted to know in later years how things were going in the city. He never failed to express appreciation for the good things he felt had been done And express concern for things he felt should be done. I always steered him into telling me about the latest discoveries in medicine because he read avidly about this or that new discovery or care or concern. Our conversation usually covered many things. As I look back, I think the talk with him was just as important in my cure as was all the medication he gave me. . His knowledge of philosophy and the world made him wonderful to listen to. I will miss him. I had the privilege of taking his children to school at sometime in their life. in all of those years I never heard any of them say any discourteous or discouraging word about their parents. This told me a lot. He was respected by all - his family, his profession, his patients, his community. He cared for all of them and he gave his best to them. In my mind, he displayed so well the example of the Good Samaritan. He came on a Saturday afternoon when I fell off of a ladder. He told a frightened Betty he couldn't do anything but help her get me in a car and on the way to the emergency room and that he would call ahead and would have a physician that could help me. He has been at my house at 2:00 a.m. when people were hurting, nerves frayed, calm needed. He provided help in all cases. He came to his office on a Sunday night when our 4 year old fell and split her forehead open. He patched up a sobbing child and parents so wonderfully that no scar of any kind is visible today. But the ultimate was when we went on vacation. We had in our care a 90 year old aunt who was fiercely independent. We tried to get her to go to a boarding home for a few days while we were gone or to make some arrangements so that we would know she was ok. But nothing would do but she would do what she had done all her life and that was, she thought, take care of herself . We were in VA. about 10:00 p.m. one evening we got a call telling us that all was not well with our aunt who helped a frightened elderly lady at 10:00 at night? Dr. McCormick and a lady from a nursing facility came and got her and took her where she could be cared for and if doing this wasn't enough. not until we returned home were we aware that there was ice on the ground while this was being done and as pay. He said. I didn't do anything to deserve pay. I did what anyone should do to help someone in need. He saw a need - did not pass on the other side - bound up the wounds and secured a place of rest - no one could do more - but many do not do even this. I could relate many more times when help was there when needed as I am sure all of you could. . God was good to us. He gave us Vincent P. McCormick for a while. He served us well. He has left his print in the sands of time in Ozark. He will be missed by all who knew him and so many who did not know him. Dr. told me he had been blessed with a wonderful mate and family. You were blessed with a wonderful husband and father and grandfather and we with a special friend. I asked him two or three years ago when he was going to retire without hesitation, he answered emphatically, never. Why should I stop doing something I like to do for something I don't like to do - and that is be idle. And he worked as long as he could..We who looked for his car parked on the northeast corner of the square knew that if we needed help he was there even though his office might be full. We will miss him as will you, his family and friends. God finally said, Dr. you have served long enough. and He plucked His flower of gentleness, kindness and love of one for another - regardless of what station in life they occupied. I think nothing better can be said of a person than to say he or she was a good man or woman. Dr. McCormick was a VERY GOOD man. and we are so much better because he and Jane chose to come to Ozark and share their lives, and knowledge and family with us. Our cherished memories of him will live on and on. Someone has written: Life is a voyage in which we choose neither vessel nor weather, but much can be done in the management of the sails and the guidance of the helm. Dr. McCormick did a magnificent job in guiding the helm and managing the sails of his life through the calm and storms of life in Ozark, Mo. We thank God he chose to come our way. These words from an unknown poet say it best: The tide recedes but leaves behind bright seashells on the sand. The sun goes down, but gentle warmth still lingers on the land. The music stops, and yet it echoes on in sweet refrains. For every joy that passes, something beautiful remains.

[Note: This is a puzzle - Isaac Melton married Lucy Tatum in 1887. In 1900, the census shows a son, Willie Melton born March 1888 - one month after the birthdate of Wiles R. McGinnis. Their daughter, Maud Melton born August 1889 married Charles L. Lewis and is buried in Spokane Cemetery. There are also a younger daughter and son in Isaac & Lucy's family. The only other Maude Lewis I find in Christian County is Maude (Melton) Lewis 26 Jan 1890 - 26 Jul 1964, daughter of Benjamin & Elizabeth (Pigg) Melton and wife of Riley L. Lewis, is buried in Prospect Cemetery, as is Wiles R. McGinnis. Ben & Elizabeth had no son named William, Wiles or any variation. Unless Wiles & Maude McGinnis were adopted by Isaac & Lucy and she took their name and he did not, I have no lead to his parentage]

Legendary Nixa mayor dies at 81

By: Joe Hadsall, Nixa News-Enterprise 07/14/2004

Anyone who asked him how he was doing heard the same reply: "Excellent, outstanding and above average!" Those who knew him knew to ask how he was really doing. Only then would he tell you what was going on. Many Nixa residents remember former Nixa mayor Luther Meadows as a friendly businessman in the community. A Marine who fought in World War II, he ran a package liquor store, raised livestock and developed land. They also remember a man who put his family first. "He was always there for us," Jerry Meadows, his oldest son, said. "Whatever was going on, he always tried to help us out." Many in the community paused to remember Luther Meadows, 81, at his funeral July 11. He passed away July 8 after a lengthy battle with diabetes. But, many residents of the Ozarks remember Luther Meadows as the controversial Nixa mayor who was impeached in 1991. His leadership style was brash, opinionated and confrontational. Some of the decisions he made during his mayoral term convinced the Board of Aldermen to expel him from elected service. "He was definitely Nixa's most colorful mayor that I've ever worked with," City Clerk Coralee Patrick, who has been with the city for 27 years, said. "I think he was honest in his desire to do good things for the city. I'm not sure he always knew how to get that across, though." Before making headlines, Meadows was born Feb. 17, 1923, in Baxter, Mo. He served with the U.S. Marine Corps from 1944 to '63, where he fought in World War II. He was stationed in the Pacific theater. He married Clea May Stanley in 1950 and served as a recruiter for the corps. After moving back to Nixa, he opened the Nixa Package Store, at the corner of Massey and South streets. He also developed a trailer park in the area. At the advice of community members, Meadows first ran for mayor in 1980 and served for two years. Nixa was a different place then, Patrick remembered. "There was discussion about the board of public works," Patrick said. "At the time, there was dissension between the board of aldermen and the board of public works about which board would control which utility." Meadows was responsible for getting the public works board to add sewer, water and street maintenance in addition to maintaining the electric system. When Meadows returned to the mayor's seat in 1990, he was a different person. He entered on a bit of controversy-opponent Dwain Stoops called for a new election, due to some citizens not being able to vote for a mayor. Shortly after, he spoke loudly in favor of a citizen-petitioned audit triggered by concerns about Nixa's new city hall on Mt. Vernon Street. "In some ways, I think the city had grown more than he could deal with," Patrick said. "We didn't have a city administrator during his first term, and he had trouble relating to that." Indeed, his battles with then-city administrator Jan Blase were legendary. Barbs exchanged during meetings would be reported in the newspapers. He also did not approve of Nixa's city hall, because it was built out in the country, far away from Nixa's downtown area. He held onto his belief so strongly that he hardly ever set foot in the building. "He would find a way to get in and take care of business, but he never would come in the building for a meeting," Patrick said. "He was just that way. He had to be what he said he was, but he knew what needed to be done and did it." Over then next two years, he would allegedly do the things that led to his impeachment, including the assault of a Christian County deputy, absence from meetings, failure to sign city checks and attempting to issue a blanket pardon for traffic offenses, including drunken driving charges. The Board of Aldermen ousted him Dec. 23, 1991. Though city leaders disagreed with his conduct, they respected Meadows' desire and efforts to serve the public. "He stood for what he believed, and I always thought he was pretty congenial," Jay Wasson, then president of the Board of Aldermen, said. "Whether we agreed with him or not, we always had to respect what he felt was right." Meadows continued on as normal. He even ran for mayor in the election after his impeachment, but lost to Jack Payne. He would file for public service one more time. He was-and will still appear as-a Republican candidate for state representative, Dist. 141. Against current representative Jay Wasson. Instead of having an ax to grind against one of his former accusers, Patrick and Wasson believed Meadows was running for genuine reasons. "My guess is he had his vision of what he wanted to do," Wasson said. "I never got to talk with him much, but I know he was interested in veteran's affairs. But, he loved his country and community and wanted to serve. That's all anyone can ask for." For the last few years, Patrick saw Meadows every month-oddly enough, in city hall. Though there is a separate building for utility payments, he insisted on paying his electric bill to Coralee. During the exchanged, Patrick said they caught up with each other. "I enjoyed him coming in," Patrick said. "I would ask him how he was, and he would say, 'Excellent, outstanding and above average!' Then I'd ask how he really felt." Of course, Meadows would tell her. Patrick said he offered to leave campaign cards on the front desk of city hall during his last visit-not seriously of course, but it was Luther's way. "He said he wanted to run for state representative so he could clean up state government," Patrick said, smiling. "I told him neither he nor I would live that long." Meadows may have been controversial and a magnet for negative-attention, but his desire to serve and do what he thought was right made him memorable. Sort of. "You could say the controversy brought a lot of good people to think about the direction of the city," Wasson said. "He stirred a lot of thought and opinions in people, and Nixa is better for it." Still, Patrick remembers a man in Meadows that put his family first. During his wife's battle with diabetes, Meadows took care of her with gentle and ample attention. "You wouldn't think a rough, old man would be so caring, but he was," Patrick said. "Cleta came first and he stayed with her until the end. Family came first in his life, and he told us that often." Meadows was buried and given military honors July 10.

[Note: Son of William M. & Annis J, Melton; grandson of Ansel Marion & Margaret (Willoughby) Melton; great grandson of Jacob & Lucy (Matthews) Melton; married 1928 Freda "Marguerite" Pearson who died 1957; married 1962 Mary (Oldham) Johnson

Denny Melton, 96 years old, died on Sunday, September 18, 2006, of old age, in peace and without pain, at Quail Creek Neighborhood Communities. Born on October 4, 1910, to William and Annis Melton, he grew up and lived all of his life in the Springfield area. From childhood to his young adult life, Denny was passionate about sports and hunting and was proud of the time he spent in Boy Scouting. He was in the first group of Scouts to attend Camp Arrowhead in 1920. In 1998, he was proud to receive an Honorary Eagle Scout Award for having before finished his Eagle Scout Project over half a century ago. During parts of the 1920's and 1930's, his love of baseball took him on tour with the Springfield Merchants and a baseball career was cut short with the coming of The Great Depression. In 1928, he married his first wife, Freda "Marguerite" Pearson, the mother of his two children, David Gordon Melton in 1934 and Rebecca Lynn Melton-Shannon in 1946. After a long illness, he suffered the loss of his first wife in 1957, two weeks before the birth of his first grandchild, Todd David Melton. In 1959, his first wife's namesake, Teresa "Marguerite" Melton, was born. Later, two additional granddaughters brought more joy to the family, Amy Lynn Shannon and Kimberly Ann Shannon. Over the years, he would be given six great-grandsons and one great God-granddaughter, Mary. In 1962, a welcome addition to the family came with his marriage to his second wife, Mary Oldham-Johnson, who fondly was named "GrandMary" and has been much loved by the family these forty some years. In 2002, he and his wife endured the tragic loss of their son, David Melton, the renowned author and illustrator and children's book publisher. "Hard Worker" could really have been Denny Melton's last name. It was noticed that he was never seen to be walking, always running. In the Depression years and throughout World War II, he ran an ice route and, at night, sowed flour sacks at a mill to make extra money. He never took holidays off, because he could get time and a half pay. Later, he would serve 35 years at the Federal Prison in Springfield as the Athletic Director. He never missed one day of work, even when he was sick. Upon retirement, he took time to enjoy friends, hunt, play golf, attend First Baptist Church and to have more time to be a father, grandfather and great-grandfather. Surviving are his wife, Mary Melton of Springfield and resident of Quail Creek Neighborhood Communities, and his daughter, Rebecca Shannon of Indianapolis; daughter-in-law, Nancy Thatch-Melton of Mission, Kan.; grandson, Todd David Melton of Mission, Kan.; granddaughter, Teresa Marguerite Melton-Symon of Mission, Kan., and her husband, Jon G. Symon, and their great God-daughter, Mary Andrews of Raytown, Mo; granddaughter, Amy Lynn Shannon-Moore and her husband, Nathan Moore, and three great-grandsons, Daniel, Hunter and Aaron Moore, all of Indianapolis; granddaughter, Kimberly Ann Shannon-Nolt and her husband, Mark Nolt, and three sons, Mahlon, Pearson and Owen, all of Columbia, S.C.; a niece, Emma Lou Martin of Springfield; and devoted neighbors, Norine Wooldridge and her son, John. He was preceded in death by his son, David Gordon Melton; his first wife and the mother of his children, Marguerite Pearson-Melton; and by three brothers and two sisters. Visitation will be held at the Melton residence at 2503 South Ferguson on Saturday, September 23, 2006, between 1 and 5 p.m. Please bring special remembrances of Denny Melton to share. A private family graveside service will be held at a later date. Memorials may be made in his name to the Boy Scouts of America, The Ozarks Trails Council, 1616 South Eastgate Avenue, Springfield, MO 65809, 417-883-1636.

In Memory Of Denny Melton On September 17, 2006, at 10:25 p.m., Denny Melton, age 96, of Springfield, had a divine appointment with his heavenly father. Enduring several years of failing health, he showed remarkable strength and courage. He and his wife of 43 years, Mary (Oldham) Melton, were completely devoted to each other. Denny departed knowing that Mary would continue to be loved and cared for by both family and friends. Due to Mary's fragile health, Denny wished his passing to be simple and without fanfare. He chose cremation with the anticipation that one day his remains would be put with Mary and other deceased family members. He is deeply missed, but will never be forgotten. His loving daughter, Becky (Melton) Shannon Memorial contributions may be made to Community Hospices of Springfield at 1465 E. Primrose.

In Memorium

In loving memory of my dear husband, Landon Melton. This would have been our 50th wedding anniversary. October 3rd, we two were wed. Our wedding vows to each other were said. He brought much joy into my life and I was proud to be his wife. God granted us 48 years. We had lots of sunshine, but there were tears. I thank the Lord for our years together. God's love and blessing were beyond measure. The Lord called him home. I miss him so and am alone. The Lord helps me my grief to bear. Heaven seems nearer, now that he's there. Friends and loved ones miss him, but soon, like him we too can go to heaven. God's eternal day and with our loved ones for ever to stay. June Lee Melton

Doyle Short, 25, of Squires, MO, was found guilty on second degree murder in the circuit here on Wednesday and drew a recommended sentence of 15 years from the jury which deliberated for three hours. Short, along with Roy Lamb, 20, also of Squires, confessed to the fatal beating of Ralph Merritt, 52, of Ava last October, as the trio drove in a car along country roads. The victim's body was discovered the day following the murder, October 15, in Little North Fork river, badly beaten and with a rope around his neck. The case entered the circuit court in Christian county on a change of venue from Douglas county. The testimony in the case was completed Wednesday afternoon before Judge Tom R. Moore. Fourteen witnesses were called by the state with no defense witnesses being presented. The state asked the death penalty. The defense attorneys were given 30 days by Judge Moore to file a motion for a new trial, with sentencing held until such action is taken. Christian county sheriff Clay Hodges stated that Short would probably returned to the Greene County jail in Springfield until the sentencing date. He has been held there since the date of his arrest. At the time of their arrest on the murder charge, Short and Lamb were already under arrest for another beating and robbery in the Squires community.

[Note: Son of Chris & Toni Miller]

Justin Daniel Miller went to meet the Lord on November 22, 2005, and now the angels are rejoicing as he has gone home where he now will be cared for by the Lord. Justin was born June 18, 1984, in Springfield, Mo., to Chris and Toni Miller. From the day he was born to the day he died he was the greatest joy in his mom and dad's life. Justin graduated from Ozark High School in May 2002 and then went on to college where at the time of his death he was a junior. He loved to read books. He was always full of a lot of questions about life and never afraid to ask them. He loved to play the guitar, ride his bike and loved to eat Mexican food. Justin accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as his savior in May 2001 and was baptized at the same time. He loved the Lord and believed that the witness of a Christian is exhibited by how one lives their life day to day, free of judgement, full of compassion and bursting with life. On the day before his death Justin spent time with his friend and mentor, Rev. Ron Bradley, talking about his desire for a deeper relationship with the Lord. Justin is survived by his mom and dad, Chris and Toni Miller, Ozark, Mo., and their beloved family dog, Coco. He is also survived by his grandma, Princess Miller, Springfield; uncles and aunts, Terrell and Judy Miller, Springfield, Bob and Jan Blazinic, Springfield, Martin and Marti Ross, Springfield, Roger and Denise Williams, Lockport, N.Y., Manny and Sherry Duarte, Richmond, Ky., Rick and Sheryl Rollins, Holliday, Texas, Art and Debbie Austin, Tombstone, Ariz., and Art and Nancy Miller, Whitewater, Mo. We celebrate Justin's life and the blessing he was to all who met him. His smile was contagious and his energy motivating. He is now in the presence of the Lord and meeting his loved ones that have gone on before him. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, November 25, 2005, in Gorman Scharpf Brentwood Chapel with the Reverends Ron Bradley and Doug Zimmerman officiating. Mills, Ray G. 19 Jul 1925 - 11 Nov 2005 SN-L 13 Nov 2005

[Note: Son of George & Mabel (Preston) Mills; married 7 May 1945 Patricia Anderson]

Ray G. Mills, 80, of Springfield, Missouri, passed from this life into the next on Friday, November 11, 2005. The family who are left do and will continue to miss his presence in their lives. At the same time, however, the family takes comfort in the richness of his life and in the benefits of the caring he bestowed upon everyone. He was born, July 19, 1925, and lived four score years, and in that time was a businessman, a heavy equipment operator, an electrician, a plumber, a welder, a school board member and president, a hunter, a fisherman, but above all else, his many talents and greatest efforts were devoted to being a provider for his family. He was a fortunate man, a father, a grandfather, and a great-grandfather who loved all the members of his family, and in return received and deserved their love and devotion. Family members never asked him what in his life gave him greatest joy, because there was never a doubt or question that it was finding the kindest, gentlest, most wonderful woman in the world, who shared his ups and downs, his triumphs and defeats, and the daily problems and joys that life brings to all of us. Ray was united in marriage to Patricia Anderson on May 7, 1945, resulting in a relationship that endured for over 60 years, an astonishing achievement in the times in which we live. Their love and caring for each other has been our rock, our anchor in times of happiness, in times of troubles, in times of doubt, and in every facet of our daily lives through the years. The time has come that he must leave his family now, no longer subject to the ailments and pain that advancing age will bring to us all. But we can be assured that he has gone to a better place, where the sun always shines, where peace and happiness are his due reward, and where he awaits the day of our reunion. He does, and will always, live in the hearts and memories of his family; and in that, has found the truest kind of immortality. Ray was preceded in death by his parents George and Mable (Preston) Mills, one sister Freda Doran and an infant sister Faye Mills. Ray is survived by his loving wife Patricia; two daughters, Kandy Bloomer and husband, Roger, of Ava and Kathie Stutesmun and husband, Leon, of Ozark; two sons, Scott Mills and wife, Linda, of Fremont Hills and Barry Mills and wife, Aliene, of Fremont Hills; 18 grand- children; 29 great-grandchildren and one on the way; and a host of loving friends and neighbors. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Monday, November 14, 2005, in Barnes Family Funeral Home, Ozark, with Pastor Dick Bishop officiating. Burial will follow in the Linden Cemetery. Visitation will be from 6 to 7 p.m. tonight, in the funeral home.

In Memorium of Alvin "Al" Montz, who passed away one year ago Jan. 5, 1975. Sadly missed by his wife Gertrude and family and friends. Be brave my friends and family. Yesterday, I was here. Today, I am in another world. Please don't weep for me as I depart this earth. If there must be tears, let them be only happy ones. I've fulfilled my life here on earth, my duties are all done. I am ready for the life that awaits for me. For you see, my Father knows best and what he wants, I must so - so be brave my friends and family. Someday soon we will meet on the golden streets and then you too shall see the happiness I now have - so be brave and only weep tears of happiness for me this day. I am not sad nor lonely. I have peace of mind, and I walk the streets of gold here in this great sky. Gertrude Montz.
