The bride's white gown was of Chantilly lace over satin, with a high Queen Anne collar and long, pointed sleeves styling the bodice. The voluminous skirt was of nylon tulle, with a scattering of sequined lace flowers, and a front panel of the Chantilly lace. A lace panel in the back ended in a Cathedral-length train. An illusion fingertip veil was caught to her Juliet cap, and she carried a hand bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a pearl choker, gift of the bridegroom.

All the feminine attendants carried white Fugi Chrysanthemums, Miss Beverly Hacker, maid of honor, wore autumn green taffeta, and the bridesmaids, the Misses Dorothy Matheney, Geneva Davis and Lorene DeMoss, were in light green taffeta.

While his brother, Earl, served the bridegroom as best man guests were seated by Charles Hart, Glen Shadowen and Kenny Hopkins.

Miss Ann DeVore had charge of the gifts for the occasion, and Miss Nancy Martin presided at the guest book.

Paul N. Peterson and Janet N. Hart Exchange Vows In Pretty Rite

Paul N. Peterson and his bride, handled by Mrs. Earl Peterson, who was the former Miss Janet and Mrs. Dick Martin, both sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Charles N. Hart have returned from a honeymoon at the Grand Canyon Hart, sister-in-law of the bride, to make their home in Santa Ana. The mothers of the couple wore formal dresses, with Mrs. Hart in gold crepe, and Mrs. Peterson in black lace. They wore a corsage of green and pink cymbidium orchids, respectively.

The evening service was performed by candlelight by the Rev. E. E. Martin, with an array of white Fugi chrysanthemums and gladioli backed by fern at the altar. The white chrysanthemums were also used for the reception, in the Broadway Wedding Chapel.

Frances Langford provided the musical selections on the piano for both the wedding and reception. She was the accompanist for Bob Nease as he sang the pre-nuptial selections, "At Dawning" and "Because."

Santa Ana schools were attended by the bride, who formerly attended Pasadena College. Her husband served with the U. S. Navy. He received his education in Kansas.
